Rationale & Procedure:

Adjudicated Events provide an exceptional opportunity for our ensembles to strive towards a performance goal, and have our progress measured and receive feedback from adjudicators to provide musical growth for our students. These events are the equivalent of a district or state athletic championship, but are rated against a determined performance standard.

Students in each ensemble have prepared and will perform three prepared pieces for adjudicators in an on-stage performance. One piece from each program is selected by the director from a "Required Music" list for each class of difficulty. Three adjudicators will evaluate the students' stage performance. Following their stage performance, each ensemble will travel to Sight-Reading (today, you will be able to observe this in-person on the same stage on which the ensemble performs; normally this event is not observable by parents), where they will be given a piece they and their director have never seen before. Students will have four minutes to study the piece on their own, and then the director is given four minutes to discuss the piece. No playing of instruments is allowed during any of this study time. Following this combined eight-minute period, students will perform the piece in its entirety for one Sight-Reading judge (today all adjudicators will rate sight-reading for each ensemble), who will then given them a rating on their performance. The combined total rating of the adjudicators determines the ensemble's overall rating.
